Election/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows: the first species or the embodiment of Figures 1 through 7; the second species or the embodiment of Figure 8; the third species or the embodiment of Figure 9; the fourth species or the embodiment of Figures 10 through 16; the fifth species or the embodiment of Figure 17; and, the sixth species or the embodiment of Figures 18 through 24.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

2. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above, with there being no generic claims:

3. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons, for example: the first species or the embodiment of Figures 1 through 7 is characterized by a refrigerant turn tank having two brazed end caps and the heat exchange tubes of the front and rear tube groups are not positioned in a portion corresponding to the refrigerant passing portion and are not arranged between the respective adjacent pairs of refrigerant passing holes; the second species or the embodiment of Figure 8 is characterized by the heat exchanger tubes of the front and rear groups positioned in a portion corresponding to the refrigerant passing portion being arranged between respective adjacent pairs of refrigerant passing holes; the third species or the embodiment of Figure 9 is characterized by the upper hollow body having no flow dividing resistance plate and by the end openings being closed with a cap having no opening; the fourth species or the embodiment of Figures 10 through 16 is characterized by the refrigerant passing holes not being limited to a laterally elongated form; and with the refrigerant turn tank being provided with a partition wall having a plurality of refrigerant passing holes arranged laterally; the fifth species or the embodiment of Figure 17 is characterized by the lack of a flow dividing resistance plate and a cap for closing the inflow opening or the outflow opening; and, the sixth species or the embodiment of Figures 18 through 24 is characterized by two refrigerant turn tanks, with each of the turn tanks having a refrigerant inflow header positioned on the front side and a refrigerant outflow header positioned on the rear side.

4. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.
